

The Ashland District.

SIMMS' MAJORITY 66.

* The following returns from the counties in this district are all official except Nicholas:

	HARLAN.	SIMMS.
Bourbon	965	681
Harrison	926	639
Fayette	732	1062
Woodford	1410	926
Jessamine	634	468
Nicholas	737	1008
Franklin	833	819
	6865	6865

* We get the vote of Nicholas from the Paris Flag, the votes of all the other counties are copied from the returns in the Secretary's office.

The Election.

The returns continue to come in gloriously for our State ticket, and for the Legislature. We have evidently swept the platter. We have the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Auditor, Treasurer, Register, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and President of the Board of Internal Improvements, all by unusually large majorities. Our majority in the Senate will be from six to ten, and our majority in the House over twenty. In the Congressional races the Democracy have not done their duty. It was reported on yesterday that we had lost three districts, viz: the Fourth, Sixth, and Ninth, which we expected confidently to carry. If this report be true, the delegation from Kentucky will be equally divided.

Fourth District.

The following are the latest reports we have of the close race in the Fourth District between Chrisman and Anderson. The result can only be determined by the official returns from all the counties.

	ANDERSON.	CHRISMAN.
Boyle	490	435
Letcher	435	550
Casey	292	271
Clinton	292	271
Cumberland	283	271
Russell	51	199
Green	51	291
Taylor	290	290
Pulaski	115	1571
Wayne	1571	1572

Chrisman's reported maj..... 55
Another report gives the majority in Wayne at 78, Clinton about 250, and Pulaski about 175, which would elect Anderson by 28 majority.

It was generally conceded on yesterday that the Democratic candidates in the Ninth and Sixth Congressional districts, Hon. J. W. Moore and Capt. T. T. Garrard, were beaten by decisive majorities. The Fourth District was claimed by both parties.

TEXAS LANDS.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of Mr. Kos. Morgan. The lands he offers for sale were selected some years ago and are among the best in that beautiful and rapidly improving state.

Idle Boys.—Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, in a pastoral letter just published, speaks as follows:

"The idleness of boys when they leave school—an idleness which often is not willful, but compulsory—indeed because unable to find any source of amusement, and one of the greatest evils of society. It is such an evil, that we look on the military despotisms of Europe, which take young men from their families or the streets for a term of years, and compel them to serve in the army, as a comparative blessing. In the service they acquire habits of obedience to superiors, cleanliness, regularity, and order. In our large cities, hundreds of boys and young men are now wasting energies which they are anxious to devote to the conquest of a respectable position in society, and therefore to the public good; but they know not what to do; they are idle because no man hath hired them."

"If parents would do their duty faithfully, and would train up their children aright, there would be fewer idlers and rowdies. Education is free to all in this country, and yet how many parents prefer to let their children grow up in ignorance and vice."

DROWNED.—On last Saturday, about two o'clock in the afternoon, our citizens were shocked with the distressing intelligence, that Solomon Spears, aged about nine years, son of Mr. Abram Spears, had been drowned in the mill-pond in the upper part of Paris, with a number of his school and playmates, had been drowned. Some of his young companions hastened to the nearest point from which aid could be procured, and a multitude of our citizens hastened to the spot, and plunged into the water in search of his body, which was soon recovered, and although every medical resource was applied, all efforts for his restoration were unavailing. He was a healthy, healthy and promising youth, and our entire population deeply sympathize with his afflicted father and relatives.—Paris Flag.

[From the Paris Flag.]
Another Glorious Victory, Capt. W. E. Simms Elected.

Another election has passed, and we have the proud satisfaction of recording another glorious victory won by the Democracy and old-line Whigs of the Ashland District. We have before seen desperate party struggles here and elsewhere, but never anything so complete with the one that has just passed. Our opponents struggled from the day their candidate was placed upon the track with the energy of despair. They spared no effort. The old American party, when bound together by oaths and secret signs, never presented a more unbroken rank. From the Hon. Garrett Davis, down to the smallest corporal, they labored day and night. The tongue was never made to utter work, hate and vindictiveness mixed and mingled with their every effort to carry this district. They rejected legal Democratic voters, and admitted illegal Opposition voters. Our candidate was assailed, slandered, and vilified, and yet, despite all their efforts, our gallant leader bore us through this contest triumphantly.

The triumph of Capt. Simms in this district in the race that has just closed, we regard as one amongst the most brilliant victories that has ever been achieved in the State.

No man ever struggled against a more united enemy. The Opposition party never before made such an effort to defeat our candidate. Yet he met them everywhere, and in every way, and "out of the State," and in every instance most gloriously and triumphantly met them; no gentleman in this district has ever made a more brilliant canvass than our distinguished townsman, Capt. Simms. His speeches upon the stump, for admiration and power of logic, have excited the admiration and inspired the confidence of his friends everywhere throughout the district. He has labored with an energy and will that never failed in the hour of trial, and to-day stands forth with the dust and smoke of battle has passed, the honored representative of the Ashland district in the next Congress of the United States.

He will wear his honors meekly, and in the discharge of the duties of his high office, will go to the Congress of the United States, the peer of any member of that distinguished body in ability and energy of purpose. The cause of the Democracy will be safe in his hands, and the character and dignity of our time-honored district maintained upon the floor of the national Congress. All honor to our gallant leader! he has fought nobly and gloriously! and the Democracy are proud to exult in his honors and triumph!

Horrible Tragedy in Missouri.

It is our painful duty to chronicle one of the most mournful tragedies that has ever come to our knowledge. On Monday evening last, about half-past nine o'clock, James H. English, son of Wm. English, ex-Mayor of this city, killed Joshua G. Rhea.

The two young men were visiting some ladies on Monday night, and during the evening Mr. English reported that some one had passed, and that he was drunk on the fourth of July, and that it was a lie. Mr. Rhea replied that he had said so. English then told him that he was a liar. Mr. Rhea remarked that that was not the place to have a quarrel, and then left, asking English if he was coming down town. He replied not just then, and the ladies think that as he left, Rhea told him to come down to the store. English remained awhile, and then bid the ladies farewell, saying that it was perhaps the last time they would see him, as he expected Rhea would kill him, but that he had some friends whom he named that would help him.

He then came down to where the boat was landed, and searched in the crowd for Rhea. Next went to Wm's saloon, and then to Mr. J. C. Allison's store, where Rhea was doing business. There was some one in the store, and he passed by the door three times looking in. The gentleman soon left, and he entered the store as Rhea was about to close the doors. Rhea's brother was in the back part of the store and heard the conversation that passed between them. Rhea said to him, "Jim, take a seat." English made some remark that Hampton Rhea did not hear, and Joshua replied, "I don't think you treated me as a gentleman should be treated in a saloon. I am a lady." English said he treated him as he intended. Rhea then said, "Damn you! English thrust his hand down in his pocket, and Rhea said, "Jim, don't draw a pistol on me, for I will kill you or try."

English drew a rock and threw at him, but he dodged, and then passed over his head. Rhea then struck English with a cane, and English stabbed him in the left breast. English then retreated, and by this time Hampton Rhea came up in time to catch his brother, who said, "Ham, I'm stabbed." He laid him on the counter, and medical assistance was soon obtained, but in twenty-five minutes he had ceased to breathe. The wound was about three-quarters of an inch long, and English made his escape immediately. A resume of the case, and the dispatches in all directions to citizens, were dispatched in all directions to intercept him if possible, but as yet no clue has been obtained as to his whereabouts.

An English Scandal.

Disgraceful as were the revelations made in the Sickles case of a certain kind of life in this country, they have been thrown into the shade by a disgusting story just brought before the London public. Hardly a year ago Mr. Wm. Hervey, a grandson of the late and a nephew of the present Marquis of Bristol, having for some time resided in this country as an attaché of the English Legation at Washington, went home to Great Britain, and married there a person by the name of Fleming, notorious as a woman of abandoned character.

A sister of Miss Fleming, of like reputation with herself, had previously married the Earl of Stamford and Warrington, the most dissolute of sporting peers; and Miss Fleming had sustained unquestionable relations with the young Lord Ribblesdale, a step-son of Lord John Russell, and a lion, last year, of the Newport and Saratoga seasons. Lord Ribblesdale, on breaking off his connections with this person, had settled upon her an annuity of £600 per annum, and this portion she brought to Mr. Wm. Hervey.

But with her dowry, whether of dishonor or of shame, Mrs. Hervey seems to have been far from satisfied. Her intimacy with Lord Ribblesdale was renewed after the return of that nobleman from America, and has now been made the ground of an action of divorce by Mr. Hervey, in which heavy damages have been awarded against Lord Ribblesdale.

The story is not a pleasant one to think upon; nor is it by any means characteristic of English social life; but it proves at least that in some respects that life can take upon itself as revolting as any which our English countrymen were so swift to find in the case of the "Washington Tragedy."

The Italian War—Its Consequences

The Manchester (England) Guardian, in an article upon the consequences of the Italian war to Louis Napoleon, says:

"The daggers of the Carbonari will be rewhetted; a hundred Ossinis will be in the field for one. The baffled Unitarianism of Italy and the irritated Rongism of France—one moment reconciled to the man of the coup d'état, on the point of condoning all his past offenses against liberty and law to the expeller of Austria—will become their old, hatred and distrust, aggravated to tenfold bitterness. But, passing by Liberalism for the moment, to what other end will this mask of sympathy for Italy have been worn?"

To awaken the active hostility of Germany, and to deepen the distrust of England; to bring a German army of observation to the Rhine, and to double the strength of the English navy; to disappoint the Carbonari, to take the shade to the revolution in the person of Kosuth; to pour out the treasure and blood of France; to inflict an incurable wound on Austria; pride, without crippling the strength that may one day exact vengeance for that wound; and to raise up the hopes of the Duchies and Central Italy only to convert those hopes into watery disappointment.

Set against these ends—which are surely those which deserve to be called gains; the requirement of a certain amount of military glory; the purchase of a momentary popularity at Paris, Turin, Genoa, and Milan the opportunity of making a show of magnanimity."

A Specific for Hooping-Cough.

It is known by a few individuals in the counties of Jefferson, Shelby, and Oldham, that I have recently that effectively cures Hooping-Cough. If there are any persons in Kentucky or Europe that cure, it is not within my knowledge, (except the one I use.) Physicians tell the families they attend it can't be cured, and that they are doomed to die. I have cured many of them, and tell them no more it cannot be cured. One dollar will pay for two bottles, which is a sufficient fee for my child. This medicine can be conveyed to any part of the United States by express for a mere trifle. ## Three Days Later from Europe—Arrival of the Persia—The Trouble not yet over—Another European Conference—Excitement in Italy—Continued Non-Interference in England.

New York, Wednesday, Aug. 3.—The Cunard mail steamship Persia, with dates from Liverpool to the 23d ult., three days later than those furnished by the Anglo Saxon, arrived here this morning.
 The steamships Bremen, Glasgow, and Edinburgh had arrived out.
 The Conference between France and Austria was to assemble in Zurich in about a week.
 The discontent in regard to the terms of the peace is unabated, and the explanations of the Emperor Napoleon are not considered reassuring. The Sardinian representative to the Zurich Conference has not been named, and it is expected that none will be present; but that Sardinia, if phased with the terms agreed upon, will acquiesce in the Austro-French arrangement in a separate article.
 It is affirmed that Sardinia has signed nothing but the armistice, and is, consequently, in a normal state of war with Austria.
 It is supposed that a European Conference will assemble after the adjournment of the Zurich Conference.
 The exhibitions of discontent in Italy at the terms of peace continued. The people of Tuscany show a strong hostility to the return of the Grand Duke. The Provisional Government has directed a vote to be taken on the subject.
 The English foreign policy had been under debate in the House of Commons. Mr. Disraeli opposed all interference in the Peace Congress. Lord Palmerston and Lord John Russell declared that England might with propriety take part, but no course was determined upon. Lord Elcho gave notice of the introduction of a resolution against any interference by England.
 Mr. Gladstone's proposed increase of the Income Tax had been agreed to.
 The Emperor Napoleon had received the congratulations of the Diplomatic Corps, at St. Cloud.
 The Pope's Nuncio was the spokesman for the Ambassador.

The Emperor, in his reply, said that Europe was so unjust to him, at the commencement of the war, that he was happy to conclude a peace as soon as the honor and interests of France were satisfied. As a proof of his moderation, he trusted that all parties would be endeavoring to do so. The Paris bourse closed last night. Three per cent. rentes closed at 67.15c.
 The German Diet has agreed to restore the contingent and fortresses to a peace footing.
 The following is from the Monitor:

"PALACE ST. CLOUD, July 21.
 "The diplomatic body having expressed a wish, through the organ of its President, His Excellency the Apostolic Nuncio of the Holy See, to be received by the Emperor, offer their congratulations on the conclusion of peace. They had the honor of being received by His Majesty the Emperor, who, surrounded by the grand officers of the household, had at his side the Ministers of Foreign Affairs. Speaking of the end of the diplomatic body, the Nuncio addressed His Majesty as follows: 'Sire, the diplomatic body felt the want to offer your Majesty their heartfelt and sincere congratulations on your happy return and the conclusion of peace.'"

The Emperor replied as follows:
 "Europe was in general so unjust towards me at the commencement of the war, that I was happy to be able to conclude peace as soon as the honor and interests of France were satisfied, and prove that it could not enter into my intentions to subvert Europe and provoke a general war. I hope now that all causes of dissent will vanish, and that the peace will be of a long duration. I thank the diplomatic body for their congratulations."
 The following telegraphic dispatches are received:
 "PARIS, July 22—12 M.—The Bourse opens flat. Rentes 67.40c.
 "PARIS, July 22—1 P. M.—The Emperor's speech caused great sensation. Rentes continue to decline and are now 67.25c.
 "PARIS, July 22—3.28 P. M.—Rentes closed very flat at 67.15c. for money, and 67.20c. for account, the decline being more than 1/2 per cent. since yesterday."

Further official documents have been issued on the affairs of Italy. In reference to the annexation of the Duchy and Central Italy to Sardinia, Lord John Russell, in writing to the British Minister at Turin, under date of June 20, says that everything for the present must be considered as provisional, and the will of the people, the fortunes of war, and finally an European treaty; the last resort must settle the territorial arrangements and the right of sovereignty in Central Italy. This view, his Lordship states, is shared in by the French Government, and he infers that it is also with the views of Russia.
 A dispatch from Count Cavour in reply to one from Lord Malmesbury, to relieve the neutrality of Parma, complains unfriendly to the British Minister's communication.
 Lord John Russell says that it is clear that the peace of the Italian peninsula, of Tuscany, Modena, and Parma will be resisted by force, and if England can consent to appear in Congress, now is the time when her voice may be heard to advantage in behalf of Italy.

In the House of Commons, on Thursday, Mr. Bright inveighed against the attacks upon the French Emperor, and consequently the French nation, which tended to plunge this country into a war. If he was in the position of Lord John Russell, he would try to emancipate himself from the old body traditions of the Foreign office. He would approach France in a sensible, moral, and Christian spirit, and test the sincerity of this Government by proposing an alteration of the tariffs of the two countries in the interest of free trade. He believed if this offer was honestly made, not with diplomatic finesse, it would bring about a different state of things.

Lord John Russell said that he had seen with pain attempts made to awaken a feeling in this country against the sovereign people of France, which could only produce on their part a feeling of animosity against the people of this country. He believed that the Emperor of the French has been a faithful ally to this country. What then was the reason for making continually invectives against him? He believed, as far as he was concerned, that the Emperor has been anxious to get rid of protecting duties, as injurious to France, but it would not be prudent to give a handle to the Protectionist party in that country to charge him with selfishness in the interests of France to those of England.

On Friday, in reply to an inquiry by Mr. Pease, Lord Palmerston said that the formation of harbors of refuge on our coasts was an object of great importance; but that the expense that would be incurred thereby would be about 14,000,000, so Her Majesty's government had no intention to propose a measure upon this subject at the present session.
 In reply to a question by Mr. Griffith, Lord John Russell said that he had understood from the Emperor of France that there is no provision or understanding in the treaty of Villa Franca that the late dynasties of Tuscany, Modena and Parma shall be restored to those possessions, if necessary, by military force.

KILLED IN A FIGHT.—A couple of negroes got into a quarrel on Saturday night last, and adjourned to the College Lane to fight it out. One of them, the property of Mr. Enoch Clark, received two or three fatal stabs, from which he died on Sunday. The other boy was arrested and is now in jail to await trial.
